Foreword

A vibrant civil society is the cornerstone of each community and of our Democracy. Namibia's constitution gives us, the citizens and inhabitants, the freedom and mandate to get involved in our governing process.

The 3rd Edition of the Guide to Civil Society in Namibia introduces you to the dedicated non-governmental-organisations (NGOs) and civil society organisations (CSOs), their mandates and activities, their contact details and the sectors in which they are engaged. To accomplish this, the Namibia Institute for Democracy (NID) compiled and distributed a questionnaire through the different media outlets for input by the CSOs.

Civil Society provides crucial services in the different sectors in society. CSOs add value to the work of the public and private sector and thereby breathing life into our Constitution. CSOs address a wide range of concerns, including basic grassroots activism, faith-based organisations (FBO), community-based organisations (CBO), civic associations, development fora, media-print, radio, TV & social media, unions and NGOs, as well as trusts and foundations.

Article 17 of the Namibian Constitution stipulates that: All citizens have the right to participate in peaceful political activity intended to influence the composition and policies of the Government. All citizens shall have the right to participate in the conduct of public affairs, whether directly or through freely chosen representatives.

Article 21 of the Namibian Constitution provides us with our Fundamental Freedoms. These include freedom of speech & expression, freedom of the press & other media, freedom of thought, conscience & belief, and freedom of association. Democracy lives by citizen participation. As Namibians we are involved in our neighborhood groups, our media, our churches and interest groups that serve our community. We keep our communities educated, safe, clean, involved and spiritually uplifted.

CSOs spearheaded Namibia's Independence process. As watchdogs we hold our elected representatives accountable. It is our taxes that pay the salaries of political and administrative office bearers. Our taxes also pay for fundamental services such as safety, water, food production, housing, electricity and health services. NGOs and CSOs work with government to influence policies locally, regionally and internationally. CSOs ensure that Namibia's Sustainable Development Goals are realised in our communities.

In conclusion NID wishes to express our gratitude to our dedicated team of consultants and to all the CSOs that took their time and efforts to send us their information. Gratitude and appreciation also goes out to the Hanns Seidel Foundation Namibia Office, who financially supported this 3rd Edition of the Guide to Civil Society in Namibia.

The main goal of this project is to increase the ability of smallholder farmers to diversify livelihood opportunities by producing sufficient food to feed their own families, as well as generating cash income, increasing the productivity of their farming, and conserving their natural resources. A livelihood model to be followed in this project will ensure that communities continue to derive environmental and social benefits for the rest of their lives.

This will be achieved by strengthening capacity to develop and implement projects on organic farming to improve rural livelihoods. Importantly, this project strategy aligns with the expectations of the Government of Namibia's policy and programmes on rural development and land reform.

To encourage the revival, promotion and preservation of indigenous knowledge on environmental management and conservation of natural resources through eco-organic farming.

To adhere to a sound social development approach which will empower the Komnarib community and surrounding villages to achieve acceptable levels of Household Livelihood Security (HLS).

To integrate sound environmental management principles and eco-organic farming as livelihood strategies and development options that will increase food security, reduce poverty and disease whilst contributing to soil, water and biodiversity conservation.

To solicit funds locally, regional, national as well as internationally, to fulfil the mission, aims and objectives of the Organisation.

Names of members of Governing Board/Executive Committee with Positions:

The person who initiated the project is highly motivated and convinced of its necessity. Her name is Frieda Kemuiko Geiseb. She offers help for the most vulnerable children and their families, providing better chances for their future.

Frieda taught children on a regular basis since 2003 and she has profound experience in working with children of different ages. She also speaks 5 languages and she has lived with her family in Katutura for the last 15 years.

Organisation Focus Programmes:

The Havana Soup Kitchen was created for vulnerable children of Havana in Windhoek. Since 2010 we provide daily meals for more than 40 children—breakfast and lunch. We also want to empower the children to become self-confident, and to teach and prepare them for school.

The second part of the project focuses on the support for the families. There is a platform for exchange, communication, workshops and crafts production.

Additional Information:

Since the 2nd of June 2010 around 40 kids visit the Soup Kitchen every day. Every year older kids are accompanied to school to access grade one, and new ones arrive. They get a safe place to stay and play, as well as food and basic education.

The Havana Soup Kitchen is the first part of the programme BET-OYSAN (Basic Education and Teaching for Out of School Youth and Adults in Namibia).

The Havana Soup Kitchen is run thanks to the support of Pallium e.V. in Germany (<http://pallium-ev.com/>) and one private donor, providing money and food on a regular basis.

Meanwhile there is an extensive network of volunteers in Namibia and Germany accompanying the project.

Help is needed: N$300 per month will guarantee the support of one child in this project and the children of Havana. Offering to volunteer services can also lead to intellectual and psycho-social development of these children.

Counselling @ LL/CL:

LifeLine/ChildLine Namibia currently runs the only national helpline-based counselling service in Namibia. In addition to the HelpLines that are aimed at ensuring children are safe, the Counselling Centre also does face-to-face counselling and school outreach programmes. The 116 Child HelpLine provides a toll-free service to assist children with difficulties in dealing with emotional distress, abuse (all types), school-related problems, behavioural problems as well as family problems. The 106 Gender-Based Violence HelpLine aims to assist those who are in need of help when found in a GBV-related situation. This is also a toll-free service available across Namibia. The 106 GBV HelpLine is further utilized as a key entry point for reporting Human Trafficking.

The Counselling Centre has a volunteer counsellor complement of social workers, social work interns, and students studying psychology and/or social work, and lay counsellors.

The Centre has a national database. A key outcome of this database is to improve and expand data collection mechanisms, improve the availability of data to inform effective programming and monitoring and synchronize reporting of data for all the lines, which will strengthen the efficacy of our services and referral mechanisms and immediately identify gaps that limit quality service delivery.

LifeLine/ChildLine Namibia is hosting the first of its kind reporting portal on the website. The National Reporting Portal for Online Child sexual Abuse Material is there to sensitise the public to anonymously report child sexual abuse material and ensure the material is taken down from online platforms.

The crisis line established in 1980 was manned by a group of dedicated and well-trained volunteers. Today this line is still accessible to the public. The sms line is an alternative medium through which individuals can seek counselling. A counsellor will tend to the text messages and respond.

Gender @ LL/CL:

LifeLine/ChildLine Namibia is also focused on the empowerment of women and girls and has made considerable contributions towards the achievement of gender equality within Namibia, with specific emphasis on advocacy and community-based projects. In 2018 LifeLine/ChildLine Namibia received The Gender Is My Agenda awarded by the President of Namibia at a state banquet. The Gender Department at LifeLine/ChildLine Namibia implements two projects aiming to promote Gender Equality and address Harmful Gender Norms.

MenEngage Namibia is a network of 13 partners from civil society organisations, government ministries and development partners. It was established in Namibia in 2012 with funding and support from Sonke Gender Justice; it is a member of MenEngage Africa and the Global MenEngage Alliance. The goal of the network is to strengthen collaboration amongst different stakeholders to scale up efforts to work with men and boys to address GBV, HIV and to promote sexual reproductive health rights and gender equality in Namibia. LifeLine/ChildLine Namibia provides capacity-building for members of the network. The network is also involved in global, regional and national policy advocacy efforts to promote men's and boys' involvement in efforts to promote Gender Equality.

Empowering communities to take action against violence (GBV and Child Abuse) by strengthening family systems and social support systems:

This project, targeted at 6 communities in Khomas and North Central Regions, is funded and supported by Brot fur die Welt. The main goal of the project is to strengthen the capacity and self-efficacy of communities to address GBV and Child Abuse incidences and challenges in their communities by providing essential services such as counselling, training and sensitisation on key drivers of GBV and Child Abuse and to empower communities to implement campaigns and actions to address the high levels of acceptance and tolerance of GBV and Child Abuse.

Child Protection:

LifeLine/ChildLine Namibia is committed to providing all children in Namibia with care and protection from all forms of violence, abuse, neglect, and exploitation, as set out in the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. The Child Protection Department is dedicated to protecting vulnerable children and young people by strengthening child protection systems and promoting positive social norms in all contexts to prevent and respond to child abuse.

Child Protection Department spear-headed the following programmes.

Early Childhood Development Pilot Project (In partnership with the Roger Federer Foundation) The goal of this project—in Khomas, Omaheke, and Oshana—is to allow disadvantaged children in Namibia a promising future by giving them a good start in formal education. The project enhances the capacity of educators of 150 ECD centres and Grade 0 teachers of 75 primary schools, through facilitation and supportive tools, and encourages and empowers parents to engage in their children's pre-school education at home, as well as to contribute actively to a smooth transition to primary school.

ECD Project in Otjozondjupa Region (In partnership with B2Gold)

The Project provides support for holistic ECD in Otavi and Otjiwarongo. The objective of this project is to improve the quality of early childhood care, development and education through holistic and community-driven approaches. The ECD centres serve 1,500 children.

HIV Testing Services

LifeLine/ChildLine Namibia offers community outreach HIV testing services in the Engela District of Ohangwena Region, through the Namibia Adherence and Retention Project (NARP) with funding from USAID through Project Hope Namibia. LL/CL provides pre-and post-test counselling, and linkage to care and support. With HIV Testing services, LL/CL is strengthening government efforts in hard-to-reach communities, and thus contributes massively to the set 90 90 90 targets of ending HIV/AIDS by 2030. Newly diagnosed individuals are assisted to receive treatment and HIV counsellors follow-up on a regular basis.

DREAMS

Namibia DREAMS Twagamenwa, with LLCL as a partner, seeks to avert new HIV infections among Adolescent Girls and Young Women (AGYW). AGYW aged 10-24 are the primary population of interest.

How does the DKCDO work?

The DKCDO is set to be run by an independent board and a full-time management best referred to here as our daily administrators on a date still to be set for the appointment of our planned new board; the first meeting is still to be announced. In addition, the DKCDO appoints short-term experts and office staff on a contract basis to assist with the facilitation of programmes. However, neither the board members nor the Secretariat has any management functions in so far as our individual clients' project implementation is concerned.

Individual clients' projects remain unfettered by the DKCDO rules and regulations, as all such projects are managed according to their project documents. All projects have their own small project team or steering committees, who coordinate and organize their work. Our secretariat liaises with them only for help during the actual project implementation process. The DKCDO is committed to a reporting tradition in the submission of its annual required Organisational and financial reports on its operations after the end of each financial year, reporting to our line ministry (MoHSS). In addition, the DKCDO books are audited annually by an independent auditing firm.

Board composition:

Composed of seven (7) persons to be sourced and selected from the general public, who must lead the Organisation based on their proven individual track records and being in possession of relevant industry-required competent skills backed by an academic background in order to hold and to occupy such an esteemed leadership position. The members of the envisioned board are: Chairperson, Treasurer, Secretary/Executive Director and four (4) ordinary members.

Vision Statement:

To establish a continental Organisation that develops African leaders who strive to find innovative solutions for problems that affect African communities.

Mission Statement:

- To build a network of African intellectuals who advocate for access to quality education;
- To find innovative solutions for the high rates of teenage pregnancies in rural Africa;
- To bring awareness on environmental issues such as deforestation and poaching;
- To alleviate poverty and hunger through knowledge and skills transfers in agribusiness; and
- To develop contextualized leadership qualities in our African youth for the betterment of Africa's future.

Regions Active:

Namibia - Rundu, Nkurenkuru
Egypt - Alexandria

Organisation Focus Programmes:

Most programmes of the Generation of African Intellectuals Trust focus on creating awareness about the 4th Global Sustainable Development Goal, which advocates for inclusive and equitable quality education for all. Hence, the programmes currently running aim to address the barriers in access to quality education in the Kavango East and Kavango West Regions.

Basic Computer Literacy Programme:

The Basic Computer Literacy programme introduces disadvantaged learners to the basic computer use for academic purposes. Most schools in Kavango East region lack computer labs, and this hampers the learners ability to progress in an era of technology.

GAIT works with life skills teachers from various primary schools, where they assist to select disadvantage learners to participate in a one-day-workshop facilitated by GAIT and other partners, to introduce them to basic skills of using a computer in a fun and interactive way.

Young Men Leadership Initiative (YOMELI) / Young Women Leadership Initiative (YOWOLI)

These are mentorship programmes intended to address social issues affecting young men and women, such as: lack of career guidance, relationship issues and teenage pregnancies, sexual health education, abuse and poor performance in academics.

The programme aims to empower the mentees by instilling ethical values to enhance their leadership qualities, with the objective of positively impacting their day-to-day decision-making processes.

Panel Discussions & Public Lectures:

These are done in collaboration with various key partners, to cultivate a pro-active society that participates in relevant discussions about the status of the Namibian education sector to give learners, teachers and parents a voice and to help bring awareness to the public about real issues that are hampering inclusive equitable quality education in our public schools.

Retired Teacher Relief Programme (RTRP)

In collaboration with the Directorate of Education in the Kavango East Region, we are developing a database of retired teachers who would like to voluntarily offer their expertise to schools that may need experienced temporary teachers in critical subjects due to the shortage of qualified teachers. Many retired teachers have acquired adequate experience that the Namibian education sector can still tap into, given the current financial situation. GAIT would like to develop and be the custodian of a database that will provide schools with quality teaching services, with the aim of improving the education process for learners in the Kavango Regions. The project will commence in January 2019.

Loving Thy Neighbour
Umbrella organisation for Receivers
<https://lovingthyneighbour.org>

Company Overview

Loving Thy Neighbour, a payment platform for Welfare Organisations, was started by PayTeq as an attempt to address their social responsibility.

We are concerned about individual charitable projects that are suffering from serious funding and support difficulties. A person can only reasonably be expected to feel compelled to support a charity or a charitable project if they have enough information about it.

In many cases by only giving them money, one only solves the problem in the short term.

Our aim is to rather focus on improving people's ability to help themselves for better sustainability.

Community mobilisation is at the centre of all we do and defines how we work. It represents recognising members as owners of the NRCS, and empowering youth and volunteers in local communities to help their neighbours. Through community mobilisation, we ensure we are able to deliver countrywide, through a network of volunteer-based units, a relevant service to vulnerable people, sustained for as long as needed.

Community mobilisation aims to recruit more members and volunteers and retain them through active participation. It empowers youth and volunteers to carry out their own self-funded and self-directed activities in their local communities, and integrates them into all our work. Community mobilisation also establishes strong and well-informed governance structures that can direct and lead our work.

Additional Information:

- Following its recognition by the International Committee of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (ICRC) in 1993, it was admitted as a member in the same year. This symbolized the beginning of efforts towards the improvement of the lives of the vulnerable people in Namibia through humanitarian networks locally and internationally.
- Activities have been prioritized through proper assessment of the beneficiaries' humanitarian needs, while their input and ownership of the projects are important factors that the National Society considers important for sustainable implementation of projects.

Vision Statement:

We seek to understand God's voice among many voices, his own character as revealed in the Holy Scripture and responding to his sovereign love with ultimate obedience, thanksgiving and praise. We seek to demonstrate God's love to our local communities, with special concern for compassion and justice for all, as well as care for God's created world (people and other creatures). This we do by proclaiming the Good News of our Lord Jesus Christ and his transforming love in our communities and around Namibia. We seek to grow in God's love in all our relationships with one another and to encourage each other in a godly way of life.

The principal object of this Church shall be to provide for the worship of God in terms of the faith and doctrine laid down in the Holy Scripture of both Old and New Testaments in a non-profit manner, with an altruistic and philanthropic intent.

Organisation Focus Programmes:

1. EXALTATION

The exaltation and praise of God the Father and His Son our Lord Jesus Christ.

We believe that this exaltation and adoration should find its echo amongst the children of God even while we are on earth. We will strive to be godly, living lives that commend the Gospel, and corporately, we will strive for reverence, joy and excellence in all we do.

2. EVANGELISM

We pledge ourselves to ongoing, unceasing and biblical evangelism. We see it as our duty, mandate and calling to so live and speak that others may be persuaded, in the sovereign will of God, to put their trust in Christ. This will involve the creative planning of various activities and encourage the involvement of our congregation.

3. EDIFICATION

We pledge ourselves to consistent and expository preaching and teaching to make the will of God known. We cannot expect our witness in evangelism to be effective if our members do not truly understand the Gospel.

4. EQUIPPING

Our members need to be disciplined and trained in various aspects of Christian ministry. Most importantly every one of our members should be able to share the Gospel with others and point them to a saving faith in Christ.

5. EMPLOYING

We can no longer operate in ministry as a one-man band. We need the gifts of others. All our Churches (both large and small) should encourage Gospel team ministries.

6. EXPORTING

This point deals with the need to send our Gospel witnesses into the world. Our vision should be bigger and wider than the borders of our own land or in fact the boundaries of our own denomination.

Additional Information:

Here follows is a summary of the Distinctives of the Reformed Evangelical Anglican Church of Namibia:

1. The Great Commission
We seek to implement the Commission of our Lord Jesus Christ to go out into the world and make people of all Nations disciples of Jesus Christ as reflected in Matthew 28:16-20.
2. We are a Word-centered Church.
The Bible occupies a central place in our common life. that is not found in Scripture or that cannot be proved from Scripture."
3. We are a Missional Church, evangelistic and missionary in outlook.
4. We are an Evangelical Church
5. We are a Protestant Church which stands for scripture alone, justification by faith alone and grace alone. We further proclaim God alone who is Father Son and Holy Spirit. We further believe in the Universal Priesthood of all Believers.
6. We are a Reformed Church, holding on to the five points of doctrine which lie at the heart of the Reformation– grace alone, faith alone, Christ alone, scripture alone and to the glory of God alone.
7. We are a Creedal (Confessional) Church, using confessions of faith to express the teaching of the Bible.
8. We are a Covenantal Church because we emphasize God's one covenant with his people promised to Abraham, not simply with individuals, but with families. The promises of God included Abraham's children. It follows that the children of believers should receive baptism, the sign and seal of God's covenant.
9. We are an Episcopal Church
We value Bishops as an ancient and well-tried form of ministry, agreeable to Scripture, and we maintain the three orders of ministry, namely Bishops, Presbyters and Deacons, whom God has called and gifted to equip all the people of God for their ministry in the world.
10. We are a Liturgical Church in that we value and use set forms for our public services.
11. We are an Anglican Church. The Anglican Church first emerged during the Reformation when the Church in England broke its ties with the Church of Rome. Furthermore, we subscribe to the Jerusalem Declaration of the Global Anglican Future Conference (GAFCON) as classical guidance for the 21st Century Anglicanism

Youth Intervention programme

Vision Statement:

To empower youth in order to restore hope, peace, joy and purpose in the lives of adolescents so that they may become responsible adults.

Mission Statement:

Using nature and the partnership of community, we deliver bold, dynamic and effective programmes that positively transform the lives of at-risk youth. Our aim is to enable youth and young adults to achieve their highest potential as responsible citizens.

Regions Active:

Khomas – Windhoek
Hardap – Rehoboth

Organisation Focus Programmes:

Wilderness Therapy Namibia originates through the question:

How to reach troubled youth? An increasing number of youth in schools with at-risk behaviour have no or little support in dealing with their feelings of distress. The traditional way of helping them through counselling and therapy is hampered a lack of attendance at the sessions and an unwillingness to communicate about their situations. The combination of stigma and judgemental connotation about seeing therapists, as well as distrust in adults, does not make it easy for youth to communicate their feelings.

How WTN meets the needs: Building Relationships:

To build a relationship with troubled youth you need to win their trust. Therefore they needed a programme to mobilize their adventurous spirit to inspire them and motivate them to change their destructive behaviour patterns of their own free will.

Participation in the therapeutic process:

The WTN Programme offers an opportunity for the youth who are at risk of emotional and behavioral difficulties, and who cannot be reached through traditional therapeutic methods, to participate in a powerful learning experience, which facilitates change, gives them a platform of support and assists them to reach their full potential.

Rites of passage: Wilderness-experience and adventure programmes such as Wilderness Therapy Namibia, focus on taking participants into the wilderness for the development of their human potential and character building. The emphasis is placed on the discovery of personal strengths and potential and development of competence. Purposeful exposure to adventurous activities can enhance the development of positive characteristics such as resilience, mental toughness, and a positive self-concept.

The Wilderness Therapy Namibia's 8-day hikes become a metaphor for life's journey. Being thrust into a situation where familiar things are unimportant, where you are faced with only yourself and your twisted perspective, you realize that you are not the centre of the universe any more. The Wilderness Therapy Namibia hiking experience can be seen as a rite of passage where the participants are separated from the everyday world. The separation can also be seen as a cleansing phase. The participants are away from everything familiar. During the transition phase the participants are confronted with themselves. It is a challenging time where the participants meet their true selves, discover their weaknesses and strengths; a time for reflection on who they are, what has happened to them, their behaviour and how it all has affected them and others. It is a time to make decisions, to let go and to change. At present WTN do 5 wilderness therapy hikes per year.

Additional Information:

The growing unemployment rate, gangsterism, children having children, availability of drugs and many other negative elements in our society contributes to youth feeling that they are lost, hopeless and insecure about their future.

For the benefit of our country's future the youth of Namibia deserve investment.

WTN does not offer just another skills training programme. We know that information alone does not change behaviour or address values, and this is what makes WTN different.

WTN is a corporate member of EcSOS which provides a statutory framework for participating programmes pertaining to the spiritual, social and economic upliftment of people and communities in need (Phone: +264 (61) 3743501; Fax: +264 (61)227289; 46A Schanzen Road Windhoek; email: ceo@ecsos.org).

Its broad range of skills and expertise allows CRIAA SA-DC to work throughout the value chain, from identifying opportunities and markets, through developing post-harvest technologies and diversifying products, to securing sustainability, ethical trade and organic accreditation. The focus is on developing smart commercial partnerships for local communities and sustainable economic ventures based on natural resources.

CRIAA SA-DC is guided by the UNCTAD BioTrade Principles and Criteria of environmental, social and economic sustainability, and the PhytoTrade Africa's Charter and Membership Matrix Criteria.. CRIAA SA-DC focusses on promoting the sustainable use and management of biodiversity resources that can improve livelihood opportunities, contribute to poverty alleviation in rural areas and foster economic growth. In biodiversity-based R&D and innovation work and native natural product commercial development, CRIAA SA-DC seeks compliance with national ABS legislation and regulations, and the international regulatory framework.

CRIAA SA-DC partners with the Namibia Women's Health Network (NWHN), seeking to improve the health, self-esteem, social justice and living conditions of Namibian women and girls, youth and adolescents - including but not limited to those living with and affected by HIV, and to empower them with tools to achieve their goals. NWHN programmes focus on provision of information and awareness raising, socio-economic empowerment and skills capacity building, and advocacy, mainly in the fields of sexual and reproductive health, human rights, social injustice, gender inequality, environmental changes and livelihoods. Programmes aim for an integrated and balanced approach, aligned with the sustainable development goals and agenda 2030 in all its economic, social and environmental dimensions.

In the course of its work, CRIAA SA-DC has also gained extensive experience in:

Education

CCF's International Research Conservation and Education Center

The Center is open to the public daily and offers educational activities, programmes for visiting school groups, and training for Namibian and foreign university students.

CCF's education center and Cheetah Museum displays provide detailed information about the cheetah: its history, physiology, importance within the ecosystem, conflict with humans, and what CCF is doing to ensure the species' survival for future generations.

CCF's Education Team presents two-day or longer environmental courses for school groups with overnight accommodation provided at the CCF educational campsites. In addition to school groups, regional youth groups, youth officials, teachers, health officials and farmers participate in specially designed programmes at CCF's Center.

School Outreach Programmes

Along with educational activities conducted at the Center, CCF's Education Team presents outreach programmes at schools and community events throughout Namibia. Since 1994, over 300,000 students have participated in a CCF outreach programme.

Educational Resources

Farmer Training And Community Outreach

As 90 percent of Namibia's wild cheetahs live on farmlands and come into conflict with farmers, livestock and game farming interests, CCF conducts a specific environmental education programme for the farming community. CCF makes presentations at individual farms, farmers' association meetings and agricultural shows, highlighting proven cheetah behavioral characteristics and predator-friendly livestock management techniques.

CCF's Education Team conducts week-long training courses for communal conservancies, emerging and re-settled farmers, and extension officers. Topics include cattle husbandry, herd and veld management, disease and vaccination programmes, business principles and inventorying conservancy resources. Other topics include basic conservation training on sustainable wildlife utilization and the role and value of predators, predator kill identification and other 'predator-friendly' farming practices. Over 3,000 participants have undergone training at CCF's Center. Several training courses are conducted each year.

International Training Courses

Because cheetah conservation is interconnected to social, economic, and environmental factors which are of national concern, African conservation managers must be equipped with the best training available. CCF has hosted several education and conservation biology courses for wildlife professionals, as well as courses on natural resource management, environmental education, conservation biology, game capture, and integrated wildlife, livestock and predator management.

Human-Wildlife Conflict Management

For communal farmers with cows, sheep, and goats—many of whom are poor—the loss of even a single animal can be devastating. Cheetahs and other predators are seen, not as a valuable component of a thriving ecosystem, but as a threat to their livelihoods. During the 1980's, livestock and game farmers halved the Namibian cheetah population, indiscriminately removing nearly 10,000 cheetahs. In 1990, in response to this, CCF developed Future Farmers of Africa, to teach about Human-Wildlife mitigation.

CCF also works with farmers to investigate, develop and implement predator-friendly techniques for livestock and wildlife management techniques, which have been adopted by an increasing number of farmers and as a result fewer cheetahs are being killed.

Livestock Guarding Dog Programme

This programme has been highly effective at reducing predation rates and thereby the incidences of reducing farmers trapping or shooting cheetahs. CCF breeds Anatolian shepherd and Kangal dogs, bred in Turkey for millennia to guard small livestock against wolves and bears. Namibian farmers now take them as puppies so that they bond with the herd and learn to use their size and loud bark to scare away potential predators. This effort has already reduced livestock loss from predators by over 80 percent.

Conservancies

CCF has been a participant in Namibia's innovative Conservancy movement since its inception. CCF has been working with the local communal farmers and populations that surround the Waterberg plateau, creating a conservancy and economic development area known as the Greater Waterberg Landscape.

Habitat Restoration with Bushblok

In 2001, CCF, together with USAID) worked to establish a habitat improvement programme that would be ecologically and economically viable. CCF identified a business opportunity: processing encroaching bush into high-heat, low-emission, compacted logs for use as a cooking fuel or for home heating, and CCF Bush (Pty) Ltd. was established to manufacture the Bushblok product. Read more about Bushblok

Eco-Labeling

CCF as a long-time proponent of encouraging environmentally sound farming practices by awarding producers who follow such practices certification as "predator-friendly" producers, who can consequently charge a premium for their products. CCF also conceptualized the notion of "Cheetah Country Beef" as a label for cattle farmers using predator-friendly farming techniques, and CCF's Dancing Goat Creamery products, as well as Bushblok, are Certified Wildlife Friendly® by the Wildlife Friendly Enterprise Network. CCF continues to look for opportunities to promote predator-friendly farming practices through eco-labeling.

Dancing Goat Creamery/Livelihood Development

This enterprise is part CCF's efforts to secure the livelihoods of the human communities that live alongside the cheetah,. The Dancing Goat Creamery produces and sells dairy products made from CCF's goat milk, thereby demonstrating to small livestock farmers a viable source of supplemental income that can make their farms more prosperous. CCF is also undertaking efforts to produce honey via an apiary, and experimenting in grape growing for winemaking, as other efforts at developing supplementary income streams for communal farmers.

Illegal Cheetah Trade

In some parts of the world, cheetahs are considered a prestigious possession, and can be bought through street markets and the internet. CCF estimates that only about one in six cubs removed from the wild survive such transactions, due to malnutrition or inadequate treatment. The growing popularity of cheetahs as pets has the potential to decimate wild populations that are already reduced.

(CCF) has been an active participant in the fight against illegal wildlife trade since 2005 and has been working with CITES, governments and non-government Organisations to address enforcement and collaboration, procedures for the placement of confiscated cheetahs and cyber-crime.

International Collaboration

CCF has close links with other countries where cheetah live, including Botswana, South Africa, Zimbabwe, Iran, Algeria and more recently, Angola. CCF is eager to support their conservation efforts by distributing CCF materials, lending resources and support, and providing training through Africa and the rest of the world.

CCF has also been working in an advisory capacity with the Wildlife Trust of India to discuss the best strategies for re-introducing cheetahs in India.

Countries in which CCF maintains ongoing collaborations:

Kenya, Tanzania, Botswana, South Africa, Iran, and the Sahel area of North and West Africa,

Additional Information:

The Cheetah Conservation Fund was founded by Dr. Laurie Marker in 1990, and has created a set of integrated programmes aimed at addressing the principle threats to the cheetah. These programmes are rooted in scientific research on the biology, ecology and genetics of cheetahs, and publishes papers in peer-reviewed journals annually. CCF currently operates the only fully-equipped genetics lab at an in-situ conservation facility in Africa.

Vision Statement:

A Namibia in which people manage the environment for sustainable livelihoods

Mission Statement:

To enhance decision-making for sustainable development

Regions Active:

Khomas, Omaheke, Omusati, Karas

Organisation Focus Programmes:

The DRFN achieves its purpose through evidence-based research, capacity development, evidence-based advocacy and lobbying as well as consultancies. Our areas of focus are natural resources and environmental management, specifically sustainable land management and enhancement of livelihoods; water and sanitation, renewable energy as well as climate change. The DRFN also supports a broad range of decision-makers, from local communities and traditional authorities to the highest decision-making bodies and individuals in government and the private sector, through capacity development and the dissemination of scientific and fact-based good practices in the areas of natural resources and environment management.

Over the years, the research outputs generated by the DRFN have provided a solid foundation for the planning, development and implementation of policies in the above-mentioned sectors. The DRFN has an online database known as DLIB which is currently under maintenance and once the process is completed, this open source is available to the public.

Additional Information:

The DRFN is the accredited National Implementing Entity (NIE) for the World Bank's Adaptation Fund in Namibia. Achieving accreditation has strengthened the capacity of the Desert Research Foundation of Namibia to address climate change-related issues in a more holistic manner together with other institutions locally and within the Southern Africa Region. The relationship with the government's national Designated Authority (DA) to the Fund, as well as with decision-making bodies (Parliament, Local and Regional Government Institutions) further improved this capacity, as did networking through social media. DRFN conducts climate change adaptation awareness campaigns together with other civil society organisations in Namibia, and recently produced an Environmental, Social and Gender Policy based on the Adaptation Fund's policies in these areas that strive to incorporate human rights, gender equality, biodiversity and habitat conservation in projects.

Organisational Focus Programmes:

The Namibia Nature Foundation is Namibia's leading conservation and sustainable development non-governmental organisation (NGO). The NNF contributes to a wide range of programmes through our core technical skills, financial and project management expertise, with work mainly in the Kavango East & West, Zambezi, Erongo, and southern Kunene regions.

The NNF's work is organised into four core thematic areas, which provide the main building blocks of NNF work.

They are:

1. Social Ecosystems
2. Natural Ecosystems & Biodiversity
3. Productive Land & Seascapes
4. Global Environmental Issues & Policies.

Our core thematic areas are reflective of our philosophy that the concept of nature is a human construct and that all society depends on the environment.

The NNF has evolved into an national institution that works with partners at all levels, and provides support to all relevant aspects of the environment in Namibia, to achieve sustainable development, as well as wise and ethical natural resource management. This makes for people and partnerships, two successful products of the NNF

Projects that the NNF supports and/ or implements:

Sector:

Women's Rights and Young Women's Leadership

Vision Statement:

The Women's Leadership Centre is a feminist women's rights organisation based in Windhoek, Namibia. We work towards building a society in which all women actively engage in shaping the politics, practices and values of both public and private spheres of life.

Mission Statement:

Our organisation supports the development of feminist leadership among Namibian women by promoting the women's rights knowledge, voice, visibility, creativity and transformative leadership of young women from some of the most marginalised sectors of our society, supporting them to form women's groups and to articulate their experiences, needs and desires through texts, photography and other art forms, informed by a critical feminist consciousness of their human rights as women and as citizens.

Regions Active:

Khomas, Erongo, Kunene, Omaheke, Oshikoto, Oshana, Kavango East and Zambezi regions

Organisation Focus Programmes:

Speaking for Ourselves: Voices of San Young Women The WLC started this programme in 2012 with indigenous Khwe young women living in north-east Namibia, educating them on their rights as women and as indigenous people, as well as strengthening their voice, visibility, creative expression and leadership.

We now conduct a national leadership programme with San young women, embedded in our work in various villages as well as with a group of San students in Windhoek.

From January 2016 to August 2018 we conducted a project with San girls in four villages for the prevention of child marriage and early pregnancy / motherhood.

Zambezi for Women's Rights Programme: This programme of the WLC builds the leadership capacity of young women in Zambezi Region to challenge the many harmful cultural practices that entrench women's subordinate position and expose them to all forms of violence and high risk of HIV and Aids.

Building Feminist Lesbian Leadership Programme:

With this programme the WLC is reaching out to lesbian women in towns and villages across Namibia, bringing them together for national feminist leadership and creativity workshops, and supporting them to build local lesbian friendship and support groups.

Our focus is on strengthening resilience among young lesbian women to resist discrimination, violence, HIV and Aids. We utilise various forms of creative expression including writing, photography, video and public cultural performances to build self-esteem and become visible and heard in Namibian society.

Organisation Focus Programmes:

Meerkat Family Workshops – "support groups with a difference", providing emotional support for families affected by organ transplant or the chronic illness of a child.

Additional Information:

The Daniela Medical Trust was established in 2007 for Daniela von Leipzig's liver transplant. After Daniela's successful transplant in November 2018, it was decided to continue the trust for the benefit of all other families, to whom the lessons learned in our family's journey with chronic illness and organ transplant would be very valuable.

In 2012, the Daniela Medical Trust was renamed the Okanti Foundation – Okanti being the Ndonga word for "meerkat". Meerkats are known for their strong community bond, always looking out for each other. Okanti Foundation has grown to more than 25 financial beneficiaries in 2018 and has supported with advice, as well as practical and moral support, more than 45 families affected by chronic illness of a child or organ transplant. It is a purely Namibian initiative – by Namibians, for Namibians. Financial assistance is offered by covering excess medical costs not covered by the State Special Fund or private Medical Aids or monthly medical aid premiums, as far as available funds allow.

Since 2017, five successful Meerkat Family Workshops were held; completely free of charge for the participating families. These "support groups with a difference" enable families to meet others who are in a similar situation, exchange ideas and experiences, access new information and improve their coping skills. Okanti Foundation also provides bridging finance for treatments or medication, which are only reimbursed by the State Special Fund or Medical Aids on completion/payment thereof. Okanti Foundation does not receive any government subsidy and is financed solely by voluntary donations from loyal donors, world-wide.

Land reform advocacy. More and more people are now contacting our office for land disputes, as we try to involve all the stakeholders to find amicable solutions.

We actively support the campaign against alcohol and drug abuse, and moral degeneration and resulting violence (focussing especially on the youth) and empowerment of low income workers to enjoy their rights (domestic, farm and security services, and informal economy workers).

We promote educational improvement and other economic empowerment initiatives (including broad-based black economic empowerment, public budgeting, etc.) by participating in civil society networks and supporting strategic progressive interventions by government, private sector and other non-state actors.

Mission Statement:

The Institute for Public Policy Research (IPPR) was officially launched in April 2001 as a not-for-profit organisation with a mission to deliver independent, analytical, critical yet constructive research into social, political and economic issues that affect development in Namibia. The IPPR was established in the belief that free and critical debate informed by quality research promotes development.

Regions Active:

National, with headquarters in Windhoek

Organisation Focus Programmes:

The work of the IPPR is divided into three core areas: democracy and governance research, public opinion, and public policy analysis.

Our Democracy Report Project focuses on monitoring the work of Parliament. From 2017-2019, we will provide regular updates on the workings of Parliament and discuss major pieces of legislation. We will publish two types of publications: in-depth briefing papers analysing laws and policies, as well as shorter, more accessible bulletins explaining the work of Parliament (see the publications here). A weekly blog will provide updates on what is happening in Parliament, and short video clips will introduce some of the basics of how lawmaking works. The Democracy Report is an extension of a previous project and is supported by the Embassy of Finland.

In partnership with the Open Society Initiative for Southern Africa, we are producing six research papers on corruption prevention in Namibia.

These papers seek to analyse critical issues in the fight against corruption and to propose solutions. As part of the project a number of public events seek to bring together stakeholders on this issue.

Vision Statement:

Freedom, justice and solidarity are the basic principles underlying the work of the Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung. We work for people to be able to live self-determined lives in freedom and dignity. We make a contribution underpinned by values to help Germany meet its growing responsibilities throughout the world.

Human beings in their distinctive dignity and with their rights and responsibilities are at the heart of our work. We are guided by the conviction that human beings are the starting point in the effort to bring about social justice and democratic freedom while promoting sustainable economic activity. By bringing people together who embrace their responsibilities in society, we develop active networks in the political and economic spheres as well as in society itself. The guidance we provide on the basis of our political know-how and knowledge helps to shape the globalization process along more socially equitable, ecologically sustainable and economically efficient lines.

Mission Statement:

We cooperate with governmental institutions, political parties, civil society organisations and handpicked elites, building strong partnerships along the way. In particular we seek to intensify political cooperation in the area of development cooperation at the national and international levels on the foundations of our objectives and values. Together with our partners we make a contribution to the creation of an international order that enables every country to develop in freedom and under its own responsibility. In order to achieve its socio-political goals, the Windhoek office of the Konrad Adenauer Foundation works together with a partner organisation (WAD) as well as with various co-organisers in 'self-initiated measures'.
